

QUIZ

FOOTBALLERS' BATTALION MEMORIAL

Answer the following questions as you listen to the video. It may help to read through the questions before the video begins.

1. What memorial is Tom visiting?

- A memorial for the nurses of WW1.
- A memorial commemorating all the families affected by WW1.
- The memorial for the Footballers' Battalion.

2. What was the Footballers' Battalion used for?

- To encourage Footballers to sign up for the war.
- Anybody who wanted to play football after the war signed up to the Footballers' Battalion.
- The Footballers' Battalion was an organisation that fought to keep footballers out of the war effort.

3. What Football tournament did the Footballers' Battalion take part in?

- The Flanders Cup
- The Footballers Award
- The Footballers of WW1 trophy

4. According to Tom's book, Over the Line, what did the generals say 'yes' to?

- The Generals said all the men could return home.
- The Generals were going to allow some men to visit their relatives.
- The Generals approved the football tournament known as the Flanders Cup.

5. Why did the Generals say 'yes' to this?

- To give the men something to think about other than shells exploding around them and snipers trying to shoot at them.
- Because the Generals wanted to go home.
- The Generals didn't need that many men to fight the war anymore.

6. How did the soldiers cope with rumours on the front line?

- The soldiers didn't think about the rumours until they were proven true because that was the only way they could cope.
- Many soldiers spent all their time trying to find out the truth to the rumours.
- Most of the rumours were false, so the soldiers never took them seriously.

ANSWER KEY

FOOTBALLERS' BATTALION MEMORIAL

Answer the following questions as you listen to the video. It may help to read through the questions before the video begins.

1. What memorial is Tom visiting?

- A memorial for the nurses of WW1.
- A memorial commemorating all the families affected by WW1.
- The memorial for the Footballers' Battalion.

2. What was the Footballers' Battalion used for?

- To encourage Footballers to sign up for the war.
- Anybody who wanted to play football after the war signed up to the Footballers' Battalion.
- The Footballers' Battalion was an organisation that fought to keep footballers out of the war effort.

3. What Football tournament did the Footballers' Battalion take part in?

- The Flanders Cup
- The Footballers Award
- The Footballers of WW1 trophy

4. According to Tom's book, Over the Line, what did the generals say 'yes' to?

- The Generals said all the men could return home.
- The Generals were going to allow some men to visit their relatives.
- The Generals approved the football tournament known as the Flanders Cup.

5. Why did the Generals say 'yes' to this?

- To give the men something to think about other than shells exploding around them and snipers trying to shoot at them.
- Because the Generals wanted to go home.
- The Generals didn't need that many men to fight the war anymore.

6. How did the soldiers cope with rumours on the front line?

- The soldiers didn't think about the rumours until they were proven true because that was the only way they could cope.
- Many soldiers spent all their time trying to find out the truth to the rumours.
- Most of the rumours were false, so the soldiers never took them seriously.