1 Tarn Fothergill goes to Grasmere School in 1940. The school's roof is the scene of one of the most daring acts of kindness by an anonymous hero who the village children call the Angel of Grasmere.

2 Tarn regularly visits St Oswald's Churchyard to remember her brother Joss - reported killed at Dunkirk - finding comfort in a place they used to visit - the gravestone of Dorothy Wordsworth.

3 In Angel of Grasmere Tarn dreams of reading the books that are on display in Sam Read Bookseller shop window. And one snowy winter's night she runs past the shop on a life-saving mission.

4 The famous diarist Dorothy Wordsworth lived at Dove Cottage. Her writing inspired her brother William's poems and moved Tarn and readers today to be brave and kind.

5 Grasmere Gingerbread is as delicious a treat today as it was in Tarn's wartime childhood. Tarn's home is opposite Grasmere Gingerbread on the road that runs through the village.

6 The calm beauty of Easedale Tarn is reached after a steady climb two miles west of Grasmere. It is the site of great drama in Angel of Grasmere - a perilous storm, a double plane crash and a miraculous reunion for two people who never imagined they would see each other again.
